ABSTRACT

A total of 27,320 transfer students were enrolled in the fall of 1975 at institutions in the State University of New York (SUNY) system. This represents a 3% increase over fall of 1974 for the same institutions. Of these transfer students, 64.6% were enrolled in senior institutions and 34.5% in two-year colleges, a distribution similar to those of previous years. The majority (58.2%) of transfer students originated from within the SUNY system. The most common type of transfer (33.6%) was transfer within SUNY from a two-year to a senior institution. The second most common type of transfer (20.5%) was transfer from institutions outside SUNY to a SUNY senior institution. The third most common type of transfer (17.8%) was transfer from institutions outside SUNY to a SUNY two-year institution. Eighty-eight tables are presented, organizing statistical data on transfers in the SUNY system as a whole, and in individual SUNY institutions. (JDS)

PREFACE

This is the sixth annual study of the application and enrollment patterns of University transfer students to be published by the Central Staff Office of Institutional Research. The study was conducted in response to the many requests for information regarding the inter-campus mobility of students attending institutions under the program of the State University of New York.

Because of the importance of reliable information regarding transfer students for regional and system-wide planning, and inter-institutional cooperation, the data gathered for this study have been organized and presented in a variety of formats designed to provide immediate answers to a wide range of questions which may be formulated regarding transfer students. The basic data are presented so as to directly relate the transfer student's prior institution and current SUNY institution and entry level. This information is provided for individual institutions, institution types, and institutions by coordinating area. Additional information is provided regarding trends in transfer students, relationship of the associate degree to transfers, admissions success of transfer students and other related information.

The acquisition of the data contained in this study involved a good deal of work on the part of the individual institutions. We appreciate the cooperation and effort required to provide these data. We would particularly like to thank our professional, statistical and typing staffs whose efforts made this report possible.

INTRODUCTION

Transfer students defined

Because of the conventional use of the term 'transfer students' and because different sources of transfer data may exist, the definition of transfer students used for this study is of special importance. Transfer students are "those undergraduate students who were enrolled at a given State University institution for the first time in the Fall 1975 term, but who had attended other colleges or universities prior to Fall 1975". With this definition, we have transfer students moving from two-year to other two-year colleges, from senior to other senior institutions, from senior institutions to two-year colleges, as well as from two-year to senior institutions. Even if no credits were transferable, albeit an uncommon case, the student moving from one institution to another would be a transfer student.

Students coming from business schools would be considered first-time students rather than transfer students. Students who simply change majors at the same institution are not considered transfer students in this study. Graduate students transferring from other graduate programs are not included here. Therefore, the New York State College of Veterinary Medicine and the State College of Optometry which offer only graduate programs, are not included in this report.

The number of transfer students reported here is an understatement because of the difficulty some institutions have in obtaining background information on those students who are not admitted to specific degree programs by application. For example, there are 947 transfer students (3.5 percent) whose prior higher education history is unknown. There are undoubtedly many others who are not even known to be transfer students, but these are not likely to be seeking admittance to a program.

Design of the study

Transfer student studies can be designed to follow identified students longitudinally, observing their success patterns. The investment of effort and time required for such studies would be substantial, given the size and complexity of the State University of New York. For this reason, a different approach was used in this study.

The paradigm used here was the analysis of the higher education backgrounds of transfer students enrolled in the various levels of the institutions under the program of the State University of New York. Some types of conclusions cannot flow from such a study; e.g., students who were unsuccessful in obtaining transfer acceptances anywhere in these institutions are not included even though they were formerly enrolled at one of the institutions included and may have graduated in University-parallel programs. Therefore, this study is based on an input model, not a true follow-up model.

Differences between this study and data from the Admissions Processing Center

The data from the Central Staff Admissions Processing Center (A.P.C.) does not correspond with the data of this study. The major difference is in the populations surveyed. Several institutions under the program of the State University of New York do not participate with the A.P.C. and consequently the data collected by A.P.C. is not system-wide. This report, however, includes system-wide data for all undergraduate institutions under the program of the State University of New York. The census date for the collection of data also differs. The data included in this study shows enrolled students at a specific time after classes have started and enrollments have stabilized.

Regional statistics

The articulation of transfer students is an important consideration in regional planning and cooperation among the institutions of the State University. This report includes an index of State University institutions by coordinating area. In addition, data on the educational background and placement of transfer students, undergraduate admissions and enrollment data are provided by coordinating area.

SUMMARY OF DATA

General Findings

A total of 27,320 transfer students were enrolled in the Fall of 1975 at State University institutions. Comparisons with data from previous years must be made with caution because the Community Colleges under the sponsorship of the New York City Board of Higher Education became part of the City University of New York as of July 1, 1975, and are not included in this report. The following table was derived from Table 14 (page 20), and was designed to aid such comparisons:

Year	Total transfer students reported	Transfers at Community Colleges under the sponsorship of the New York City Board of Higher Education	Transfer students excluding Community Colleges under the sponsorship of the New York City Board of Higher Education
Fall 1975	27,320	Not applicable	27,320
Fall 1974	27,745	1,209	26,536
Fall 1973	25,310	966	24,344
Fall 1972	21,946	1,188	20,758
Fall 1971	20,711[a]	640	20,071
Fall 1970	19,681	397	19,284
Fall 1969	14,537	513	14,024

[a]Excludes Empire State College.

The above table separately identifies transfer students at the Community Colleges sponsored by the New York City Board of Higher Education. This permits comparison of transfer data for Fall 1975 with that of previous years; the table reveals that the number of transfer students has increased annually. The number of transfer students reported in Fall 1975 (27,320) represents an increase of 784 or 3.0 percent over Fall 1974 for the same institutions.

Of the 27,320 transfer students reported, 64.6 percent were enrolled in senior institutions and 35.4 percent in two-year colleges, a distribution similar to previous years.

The majority of transfer students were from institutions within the State University system (58.2 percent) which represents a slight decrease compared to Fall 1974 (59.7 percent); however, when the Fall 1974 data is adjusted to exclude the Community Colleges sponsored by the New York City Board of Higher Education, the percent of transfers from within the system is identical, viz., 58.3. The most common type of transfer (33.6 percent) was the student who transferred within the State University system from a two-year to a senior institution. Of those transfers from SUNY two-year to SUNY senior institutions, 83 percent were from Community Colleges. The second most common type of transfer (20.5 percent) was the student who transferred from outside the State University to a SUNY senior institution. The third most common type of transfer (17.8 percent) was the student who transferred from a non-SUNY institution to a SUNY two-year institution.

A brief summary of selected aspects of transfer student mobility expressed as percentages of all transfer students follows:

From a SUNY institution		58.2%
From a non-SUNY institution		38.3%
Previous institution unknown		3.5%
		100.0%
From all sources to a SUNY senior institution		64.6%
From a SUNY two-year institution	33.6%
From a non-SUNY institution	20.5%
From a SUNY senior institution	9.6%
Previous institution unknown	0.9%
From all sources to a SUNY two-year institution		35.4%
From a non-SUNY institution	17.8%
From a SUNY two-year institution	9.6%
From a SUNY senior institution	5.4%
Previous institution unknown	2.6%
		100.0%

Transfers to Senior Institutions

One measure of transfer student populations is the proportion of students accepted with full junior or senior standing. Students transferring from State University institutions seem to show smoother articulation than students from institutions outside the State University system, whether inside or outside New York State. For example, 57.5 percent of the transfer students from State University institutions admitted to senior institutions entered at the junior or senior class level. Only 36.7 percent of those from institutions outside the State University system entered at the junior or senior class level (see Table 3).

In addition to preparing students for smooth articulation to the third and fourth years of bachelor's degree programs, it is also notable that SUNY two-year colleges produced 52.1 percent of all transfers to SUNY senior institutions. The largest group of such transfers was from Community Colleges (43.1 percent), while the Agricultural and Technical Colleges produced 9.0 percent of all transfers to SUNY senior institutions.

In this regard, it is interesting to note that transfers to senior institutions were produced in similar percentages by the other sources (see Table 4), i.e., the percent of transfers to a senior institution from a SUNY senior institution was 14.8 percent; from a non-SUNY institution within New York State, 15.1 percent; and from out of state, 13.9 percent.

Trends in Transfer Student Data

The total transfer population increased from 14,537 (5.6 percent of Official Undergraduate Fall Enrollment) in Fall 1969 to 27,320 (8.6 percent of Official Undergraduate Fall Enrollment) in Fall 1975. Refer to Table 14 and the General Findings section of this Summary of Data for annual details. The role of the Community Colleges under the program of the State University of New York may be viewed in terms of the yield of transfers per associate degree. The following table summarizes this information from Fall 1971 through Fall 1975:

Year	Yield of Transfers per Associate Degree
	Total[a]	Community Colleges			Ag. & Tech. Colleges
		Total	NYCBHE[b]	Other
Fall 1975	.1707	.1701	.0143	.2395	.1734
Fall 1974	.1834	.1866	.0098	.2659	.1679
Fall 1973	.1690	.1736	.0144	.2413	.1458
Fall 1972	.1405	.1415	.0338	.1828	.1353
Fall 1971	.1892	.2003	.0215	.2689	.1355

[a] Excludes Associate degrees granted by the State University senior institutions.

[b] Community Colleges under the sponsorship of the New York City Board of Higher Education.

These data represent degrees granted 1970-71 through 1974-75 and transfer students at senior institutions Fall 1971 through Fall 1975. The data for these five years indicate no set pattern and suggest that perhaps patterns for community college activity may not be set until the enrollments have stabilized.

It has been obvious over the years that the number of transfer students from Community Colleges under the sponsorship of the New York City Board of Higher Education to other SUNY institutions has been very low. Again, you are cautioned about comparisons from one year to another. Because of legislation signed to make these Community Colleges an integral part of the City

University of New York effective July 1, 1975, data for these institutions is not included in the Fall 1975 report, though it had been included in our previous reports on transfer students.

Concluding Remarks

A study of this complexity will undoubtedly raise further questions and lead to more insight about the extent and nature of student mobility to and within the State University of New York. It is hoped that the basic information will be useful and that on the basis of these and other data, more students can find ways to further their search for appropriate and rewarding educational experiences.

PART THREE

APPENDIX

FOOTNOTE REFERENCES

[a]Excludes the Community Colleges sponsored by the New York City Board of Higher Education which as of July 1, 1975 are no longer under the program of the State University of New York and are now solely a part of the City University of New York. (See summaries of non-S.U.N.Y. institutions for data on students from these colleges, as appropriate.)

[b]From an institution which cannot be subsumed under the specific categories listed; e.g., those with Regents External Degree Credit, nursing students from noncollegiate institutions who receive advanced standing, those transferring credit from the United States Armed Forces Institute, and any other noncollegiate transfers who receive advanced standing.

[c]Includes 895 students at Empire State College for whom the concept of class level is not applicable.

[d]Or its closest equivalent associate degree.

[e]Less than 0.05%.

[f]Excluding 286 Associate degrees conferred by State University senior institutions.

[g]Includes Buffalo Health Sciences Center.

[h]Excludes Empire State College.

[i]Excludes data for Community Colleges under the sponsorship of the New York City Board of Higher Education.

[j]First year of operation.

[k]Graduate and first-professional students only.

[l]Information is not provided regarding the class level that students entered because the concepts of 'freshman', 'sophomore', etc. are not applicable to Empire State's program.
